CITY STREET WORK

IMPROVEMENT OF PACIFIC AND GLENDALE AVENUES—PACIFIC ELECTRIC EXTENSION

The work of fixing up the streets of the city goes on steadily and bit by bit the thoroughfares are being put into better shape. The latest contract on street work was that signed by Cornwell & Henderson, this week, for the construction of sidewalks and curbs and the regrading of Pacific avenue from Broadway to the south city limits. This work will cost between $6000 and $7000. The work was begun Friday morning and will be rushed through as speedily as consistent with good work.

As there has been no protest from any of the property owners on Glendale avenue in the district from First and Glendale to Verdugo road, it is likely that there will soon be a paved road along that line. That is an improvement that has been greatly needed for a long time. A great deal of traffic goes along that road and the public will feel that a paved road is an enormous advantage. Besides it will add greatly to the appearance of the city and make a good impression on visitors.

By the securing of a deed from L. C. Brand conveying to the city certain properties in the bed of Verdugo wash and adjacent thereto the ultimate rectification of the channel of the wash from a point east of Brand boulevard westerly has been secured. That this should have been obtained without cost is a matter of considerable gratification. It hastens the time when the greater plan for the rectification of the channel of the wash and the conveying of its flood waters into the great Alamitos bay system will be fulfilled. That this should ultimately be done is of course the aim and desire of the city. It is likely that when desired other property owners will be pleased to help the great plan by donating the property required.

Work on the extension of the Pacific Electric line from Glendale avenue to the Child's tract has proceeded with gratifying dispatch. The double line is now laid out to the terminus opposite the Broadway school and the cross-over at Glendale and Broadway is about finished. There is still some work to be done at the terminus where it is likely that some kind of a depot will be erected. The old electric light and telephone poles are shortly to be removed and already the new poles have been erected well off the line of the street. When finished the street will have the same appearance as that portion of it between Glendale and Brand.

GIRLS' SEWING CLUB

Seven girls met on the afternoon of Thursday, July 13, at the Pacific Avenue school, for the purpose of forming a sewing club. The girls present were: Ruth Ward, Ethel Wilson, Helen Dimmick, Lillian Mason, Florence Hollingsworth, Helen Robinson and Dorothy Sherman. Miss Tipton, the playground director, assisted by one of the mothers, took charge of the entertainment, which was held in one of the schoolrooms. While the girls sewed "The Secret Garden" was read, much to their pleasure and profit.

It was arranged that the sewing club should meet every Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Bring any kind of sewing, plain or fancy. There will be games and reading as well as sewing. Girls of any age are welcome. Next Thursday the club will be organized with a president and other officers. Come and bring your friends.

DEATH OF HOWARD BRIGGS

Howard Briggs, son of Mrs. Briggs of 914 San Rafael street, Glendale foothills, died Friday evening at 5:30 o'clock. He was thirteen years of age. Attacked by some obscure disease of the liver, the young boy was operated on. Peritonitis supervened and he died after an illness of two weeks. He is survived by his mother and a brother, Louis B. Briggs, two and a half years old.

The funeral services will be conducted at the parlors of the Jewel City Undertaking company, Monday, July 17, at 1:30 p. m., by the Rev. Julius Soper, pastor of Casa Verdugo Methodist-Episcopal church. Interment will be in Forest Lawn cemetery.

VIOLATION OF TRAFFIC

George A. Johnson, of 951 N. Main street, Los Angeles, was arrested Friday evening on a charge of driving on the wrong side of the street and of having nearly caused a collision. Johnson was bound over to appear before Judge Whomes Monday morning to answer to the charge.

WARNING TO BOYS

Three boys, whose names are not published simply for the reason that it is hoped that they will take to heart the admonition bestowed on them by Judge Whomes and partly because it is probable that they did not realize the fact that they were committing a crime, in stealing melons from a field, were ordered to pay 50 cents each as the value of the fruit taken. The owner of the melon patch would probably not have prosecuted the boys had they not besides what they ate destroyed willfully other melons. The same boys are suspected of having raided a melon patch on Second street. A fourth boy who was also implicated in the raid did not appear. Judge Whomes has ordered him brought to court Saturday and it will probably go harder with him than with those who were sentenced Friday.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

Among the beautiful trees and beside the still waters of Echo Park, Los Angeles, the Sunday School of the First Congregational church held its annual picnic, Friday afternoon. The members of the school and congregation found their way to the park by the street cars and by autos as they chose. By one o'clock quite a number had assembled and games and boating were enjoyed. Mr. Von Oven, superintendent of the Sunday School, was in charge and saw that everything went smoothly. Mrs. E. D. Yard had supervision of the refreshments and provided bountifully for those present. Dinner was served at 5 p. m. After a pleasant day the party found its way back to Glendale in good time.

BRITISH CRUSH GERMANS' SECOND LINE

GEN. HAIG'S MEN CAPTURE FOUR MILES OF TRENCHES AND ADVANCE FOUR MILES ON PICARDY FRONT

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, July 15.—The Germans have been driven out of various points of importance on a line of four miles in length and four miles in depth. Their defense was completely smashed by the attack of Gen. Haig's men, who advanced through a barrier of fire to the storming of the second system of defense north of Contalmaison. The British smash has straightened out the line of advance until it is now in touch with the French advance toward Peronne. The British southern front is now on a line with the French troops at Hardecourt. The advance has been continued since morning. The possession of Longueval by the British is a serious blow to the Germans.

C., July 15.—The State department announced today that it considers the Deutschland, the German merchant submarine, a peaceful ship, after a careful review of all the facts in the case. The vessel is stated to carry no facilities for beligerent operations and appears to be so constructed as to make it difficult for her to be converted at sea into a war vessel.

ARAB REBELS CAPTURE HOLY CITY OF MECCA

INSURGENTS NOW HOLD RELIGIOUS CENTER OF THE MOHAMMEDAN WORLD—GREAT BLOW TO TURKS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CAIRO, Egypt, July 15.—The famous city of Mecca, the religious capital of the whole Mohammedan world, the holiest place of the Mohammedan religion, is in the hands of the Arabian rebels, who have already taken other important points. The city was subjected to a brief siege and surrendered at discretion. It was held by a fairly strong detachment of Turks. The Arabs look for a return to the ancient caliphate and the overthrow of the present degenerate and lukewarm Mohammedanism in Constantinople.

RALLY AT LITTLELANDS

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING IN THE INTEREST OF GLENDALE'S CANDIDATE

There took place a real enthusiastic Packer rally at Bolton hall, Littlelands, Friday evening. Mr. Packer of Glendale, who is a candidate for supervisor, in the Fifth District, accompanied by about fifty of his friends, visited Littlelands Friday evening at which time a very interesting program in Mr. Packer's interests was carried out. Bolton hall, which has a large seating capacity, was crowded by residents of the Monte Vista valley who came out to meet their next supervisor.

J. C. Sherer of Glendale served as chairman of the meeting. Upon calling the meeting to order he explained that the interests of the San Fernando valley and the Monte Vista valley are identical, and that the man who best serves the interests of Glendale as supervisor will also best serve the interests of the Monte Vista valley.

The chairman introduced Attorney W. E. Evans of Glendale, who is a member of the law firm of Jones & Evans of Los Angeles. Mr. Evans explained the magnitude of the district and placed emphasis upon the fact that Los Angeles county is the richest county on the Pacific coast and is one of the largest counties in the United States, thus the importance of having able men as members of the Board of Supervisors. Mr. Evans explained about the qualifications of Mr. Packer and said it was quite generally conceded by the other candidates that Mr. Packer is their strongest opponent. He also stated that Mr. Packer is not a candidate of his own volition but that he was urged to enter the race by more than 2,000 of his friends who signed the petition making the request that he become a candidate for supervisor of this district.

A. T. Cowan of Glendale also spoke of Mr. Packer's qualifications for the office which he seeks and placed emphasis upon the fact that Mr. Packer is a gentleman who knows how to meet men and do business with them with tact and on a square and honest basis and that if Mr. Packer is elected supervisor his characteristics are such that he will receive the best positions on committees and he will have the respect and confidence of the other members of the board.

Dr. Jessie A. Russell of Glendale, who is a prominent member and worker in the Civic clubs of Los Angeles county, talked to the ladies of the interest they should take in the supervisory contest, and reminded them that it is their duty to become acquainted with the candidates that they may know of their qualifications. She concluded her remarks by advising them to support Mr. Packer at the primary election, August 29, as she considers him well qualified to fill the position he seeks. The chairman introduced Mr. Packer, who said that he did not become a candidate without giving the question serious thought. He explained that his life work until coming to Glendale about seven years ago had been the logging and lumber business and that in a business way he considers himself well fitted to perform the duties of the office which he seeks. Mr. Packer read a few paragraphs from his platform which boiled down corresponds to his very appropriate campaign slogan, "Economy With Progress."

The speeches were interspersed with readings by Mrs. G. C. Cable, songs by Mrs. William Herman West and piano solos by Mr. H. E. Henning, all of Glendale. After the close of the meeting Mr. Packer in regular clergyman style took his place at the door and gave the glad hand to those of the audience as they passed from the room. He has prospects of a large vote in the Monte Vista valley.

THE NEW LAUNDRY ORDINANCE

The amendment to the license ordinance placing a yearly tax of $100 upon laundries in the City of Glendale and the same amount on every wagon or other vehicle collecting and delivering for outside concerns, went into effect on June 19th and seems to be working very well. Up to the present time eight different concerns have paid the fee to enable them to carry on their business here up to January 1st next, the license being payable semi-annually.

CITY LICENSE FEES

The amount received by the city for license fees for the present year ending June 1st was $1334, while for the month of July to this date there has been the sum of $257 paid in for the half year.

MUSICALE AT ARD-EEVIN

MRS. CAMPBELL COMPLIMENTS GUEST WITH BRILLIANT SOCIAL AFFAIR

Ard-Eevin in the Glendale foothills, the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell that overlooks the valley, was the scene of a brilliant and happy assemblage Friday afternoon when Mrs. Campbell entertained with a musicale in honor of her cousin, Miss Mary Robinson Baxter of Bartelsville, Okla., who is her house guest. The rooms of Ard-Eevin were festive with the season's blossoms and hospitality and gracious kindness radiated about the hostess as always.

In the reception hall where the guests were met by Mrs. Campbell and Miss Baxter golden coreopsis and brown eyed Susans added their welcome to all who came. In the parlors pink dahlias of delicate shades were used in abundance while in the den dark purple dahlias added their beauty to the cozy furnishings. Blossoms of many shades and colors in baskets and vases were used in the dining room to splendid effect. While the guests were being received, Miss Lois Jones of Los Angeles, a well-known harpist, played softly. The afternoon's program included some wonderful music by Miss Jones, solos by Mrs. Catherine Shank, widely known throughout Southern California as a singer of exceptional merit and folk dances by little Elizabeth Kezane of Los Angeles who gave in costume Scotch, Spanish and Old Southern dances, to the delight of all.

Mrs. Campbell was assisted in entertaining her guests by her sisters, Mrs. Arthur Campbell of Glendale and Miss McPeak of Los Angeles. Assisting with the dainty refreshments were Misses Jeannette McLennan, Maybeth Pigg, Barbara Mitchell, Marjorie Imler, Winifred Jones, Esther Black, Helen Thompson and Kathleen Campbell, the young daughter of the hostess.

The afternoon was one of much pleasure to all who were permitted to meet the charming guest of honor and hear the splendid program provided by the hostess. Miss Baxter will spend some time with the Campbells, who leave soon for an outing at Balboa beach, after which she will go to San Francisco. In the beginning of September Mrs. Campbell will have a day when all who wish may call upon Miss Baxter before she leaves finally for her home in Oklahoma.

GLENDALE VOLUNTEERS

According to arrangement the Glendale company of volunteers went to Tropico to drill along with the members of the company who live in that section. There are twenty-five members of the company who live in that section. The men assembled on the Tropico school playground, where there is a fine cement court. The drill began at 8 p. m. and was conducted under the light of the electric lamps that serve to illuminate the grounds. The men were divided into three squads, Captain Johnson handling one, E. M. Polley another and Don Packer a third.

After an hour of squad drill the squads formed company and drilled for another hour. There were a few recruits and some of the Boy Scouts also drilled with one of the squads. The next drill of the company will be at the drill hall, corner of First and Glendale avenue, Glendale, Wednesday next week, at 8 p. m. A full attendance is desired as the company will proceed to elect some more officers, their appointment being desired by the headquarters in Los Angeles, Monday night there will be a school for officers in the Glendale Fire House at 8 o'clock.

INDIANS "AT HOME"

Recently the Cheyenne Indians, near Clinton, Oklahoma, held an elaborate "at home" in honor of the neighboring Kiowa chiefs and their people. Everything was carried out in high style, many of the tents of both hosts and visitors being furnished with brass beds, carpets, and a variety of such ornaments as most appeal to the Cheyenne and Kiowa sense of what is artistic.

Such a commingling of tribes, under modern conditions is to be accounted for by the fact that many of the members of these tribes have become educated and quite wealthy, and the commingling is usually accompanied by a discussion of plans and means for improving and advancing the status of the American Indian.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, JULY 15, 1916

COTTON IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

One would have thought that with a climate so favorable as that of Southern California for the cultivation of cotton and with a soil that contains all the elements necessary for the nourishment of that plant there would be a very large acreage under cotton cultivation. As a matter of fact, while the adaptability of the soil and climate for this purpose has been known for some years, it is only of late that planting has been begun on a large scale.

Now that the work has been begun it can be seen that the acreage of cotton is increasing year by year. In 1909 more than 450 acres were planted in Imperial county with seeds from Georgia and Texas. The result was gratifying. An average of 450 pounds of lint to the acre was produced, some 350 bales in all, most of which found a ready market at the California Cotton Mills in Oakland. In 1910 some 6000 acres were cultivated producing 4000 bales of excellent staple.

During the season of 1913 26,000 acres were planted with a production of 21,500 bales. The Bureau of Census reports that 49,835 bales were ginned in California in 1914, including cotton grown in the Mexican side of Imperial valley.

In 1914 California broke several cotton records. The earliest bale of cotton ever ginned in the United States was grown near Calexico and ginned on June 17, three days earlier than the previous record held by Brownsville, Texas. The cotton was grown as the third crop on the same stalks. Seed taken from the record bale and planted on the same acre produced a second bale on Oct. 15 of the same year.

Both long and short staple cotton in California yielded 500 pounds to the acre. Missouri had the next best record, 325 pounds to the acre long and 295 of short staple. There is very little rain to stain the fibre nor is there any frost until the season is practically over. Therefore California clean picked cotton brings a premium over the prevailing market price. The California product is beautifully white.

Commercial cotton growing in California is confined at present to Imperial county and a small acreage in the Palo Verde valley of Riverside county. Calexico is the chief cotton center.

California might easily come near to taking the lead in cotton growing, at least as far as quality is concerned. What is necessary is a suitable supply of experienced labor. That may have to be developed. In the southern states colored labor is expert and has the advantage of having hereditary instinct for the work. That will undoubtedly be the trouble in cotton growing in California for some time to come. Doubtless Japanese labor could be obtained but the history of that experiment would probably be the same as in the raisin industry of California—the Japanese would probably dominate the whole situation and drive the white worker from the field.

Cotton growing in Imperial valley has developed to such an extent that it has called for the installation of twenty modern four-stand gins, four cottonseed oil mills and two compressors, as well as a strong Association of Growers for the selling of their cotton. The yield for 1915 was about 27,000 bales, including cotton grown on the Mexican side of the international boundary.

VALUE OF SMALL PLEASURES

In nations swollen with wealth there has developed a tendency to value a thing by the price it costs in actual money. This has developed a taste for display and ostentation and even in children has led to the despising of simple joys and pleasures and inexpensive presents and the demand for elaborate and costly toys. Year by year sees toys for children becoming so elaborate that one article alone will sometimes cost as much as a workingman earns in a month.

All this is the very worst kind of taste and the very worst kind of training for children. It is certain to make spendthrifts. It undoubtedly develops children into prigs, despising everyone who has not as much money as they have and sneering at those who cannot afford expensive amusements.

This spirit it is which saps the life out of a nation and brings its men to the point where they prefer personal ease to reputation and women to the point where they prefer luxury to reputation. It is the sign of decay. It developed in Rome just before its downfall and in Greece before its decadence.

To teach children to take delight in simple pleasures and in small joys, to show the young the beauty that is in the heavens above and the earth beneath and in the waters under the earth is to give them a mental joy and a daily pleasure of which the world can never rob them.

The wise have learned that value lies not in the purchasing power of gold but in the wealth of human thought, that the men and women who contribute to the sum of the world's knowledge are far greater than the money barons who have acquired their wealth at the expense of others; that to understand the suffering of humanity and to alleviate it is the highest work of this world, and that to do this in addition to our daily tasks is the part of the true man or true woman.

Much of the so-called charity of the world is of the same nature as that of the benevolent slum workers of New York who went into the home of people who were starving bringing with them a potted plant and a canary bird to make the family esthetic and cheerful. Even a bouquet of exquisite roses may be out of place as a gift to a family that has had no dinner and knows not where to look for the next meal.

These may seem small things to the man or the woman who is well fed and has never known the bitterness of hearing children crying for bread; but they are very real to those who know about them. The small things of the world are of immense importance.

Twenty cents is a small matter, yet it is often all that a family of five has wherewith to get dinner. The critic of the thriftless ways of the poor is always ready to tell how the twenty cents should be spent; but what the family of five needs is more money, not advice.

The great Master was not backward to tell of the spiritual delinquency of those who knew that their brethren had need of common necessities and permitted them to suffer hunger. The old Scotch proverb, "It's ill speaking between a full man and a fasting" is one of the truest maxims of the ages. What many people need is a supper not a sermon. Feed the hungry and perhaps they will find some saving grace in the discourse.

It was to be noted that Jesus of Nazareth very frequently ministered to the bodily needs of his disciples and of the multitude. He was interested in the catching of fish and while simple in his tastes and needing little still never neglected to satisfy the natural hunger of man as well as the hunger of the soul.

EQUILIBRIUM IN BUSINESS

An important factor in successfully conducting any business is for the person engaged in that business to possess a perfect business equilibrium. Upon engaging in business it is necessary for a person to take into account conditions of the community in which he wishes to engage in business. He must consider if there will be sufficient demand for the line of merchandise that he wishes to place on the market. After deciding that the venture is a safe one it is then necessary for him to consider carefully as to the expense, comprising rent, help, heating expense, lighting and other incidental expenses. After considering carefully the expense of conducting the business it is then necessary for him to determine at what price he must sell merchandise in order to have sufficient profit to allow him fair interest on the investment. In computing the item of help he should be careful to include his own services at a salary that will be commensurate with the amount of time and thought he gives to the business. The man who now-a-days engages in business in a haphazard way runs a great risk of failing to make good.

UNNECESSARY EXPENSE IN BUSINESS

Now-a-days, one of the great drawbacks to successfully carrying on a business is the item of extra or unnecessary expense connected with making collections. Fortunately there are thousands of business firms in the country that meet all obligations promptly but unfortunately there are thousands that while they may be considered good pay do not pay until a collector calls a half dozen or more times to remind them that the account is past due. This carelessness in the payment of bills that results in it being necessary for a collector to make repeated calls is one of the great drawbacks to business at the present time. The collector is on a salary and reckoning his time at so much per hour it is very easy to understand that a large per cent of the bills that are slow in collecting are consumed in the expense of collecting. Every person who considers himself financially responsible should make arrangements to meet all obligations promptly without putting the collector to the trouble and expense of making extra calls.

WOMEN IN CAIRO

The city of Cairo, Egypt, now has a woman's educational union. It was established under the patronage of the mother of the khedive. The organization was established to promote female education, provide lectures for women, and publish a woman's magazine.

That which adds most to the business success of any community is for the people of that community to learn to love and respect the institutions of the place in which they reside.

The obtaining of an education is a life work. The man or woman who gets an idea that he or she has learned all that can be learned in this world is an example of egotism in the extreme.

If in the season of 1917 all vacant lots that in the year 1916 raised a crop of weeds, could be planted to vegetables, the financial gain to the residents of this city would be inestimable, but will the planting be done?

Thousands of men fail in business because their fellowmen do not know that these men are engaged in business. The man who fills his shelves with stocks of goods and then stands at the door of his storeroom and expects the public to patronize him makes a great mistake.

VALUE OF GOOD ROADS

There has recently been brought to the attention of the people of the Glendale community the value of good roads. The instance referred to is the state highway that was last winter built from the La Canada school house for a distance of six or seven miles through La Crescenta, terminating near Littlelands. Prior to the building of this road there was an irregular road through the brush and rocks that was almost impassable. The wear and tear upon automobiles and other vehicles was great. Now since the new state highway has been built autos and various vehicles can spin along without the least friction or disturbance. This new highway has greatly increased the price of lands adjacent to the road.

EAGLEDALE NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bourne of Bourne canyon entertained a party of forty people at their picturesque home and grounds, Friday evening. The affair took the form of a kind of barbecue. In the grounds Mr. Bourne has built a fine large oven with a grill and the guests were served with grilled beefsteaks, cooked in the open air. In like manner wieners were grilled and served piping hot to the guests, with excellently cooked spaghetti, Italian style. Ice cream and cake were also served, with coffee. The guests voted this one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. The grounds were brilliant with Japanese lanterns. Speeches were made at the close of the banquet. In one of the little side canyons on the spacious grounds swings were erected for the children and croquet was played on a fine court. The guests also amused themselves with various games and with narrating stories.

SUMMER WAYS

Hush—and listen! Rippling, falling.
Are the silver thrush-notes calling
Through the pines, and in the valley far below.
From the clover and the grasses,
Fresh with every air that passes,
Rise their sun-warm scents to greet us as we go.

Ah, but life is worth the living
When—above all other giving—
To the measure of its glories I can add—
With the summer sunshine o'er me,
And my Road of Dreams before me—
Such a living thrill of joy in being glad.
—Aldis Dunbar.

HOW SHE RECOGNIZED IT

We hear a great deal about cultivating the voice for singing, but not so much about cultivating it for speaking. And yet, one cannot begin too early to train it for the latter use.

Elsie Richards craned her neck to gaze out of the window and down the street, saying as she did so:

"Oh, yes, mamma, I am sure that was Polly Denby. I heard her speaking as she passed by, and I should recognize her voice among a dozen."

And how do you think Elsie recognized her friend's voice—by its sweet, soft, musical tones. Quite the contrary. Polly's voice was so loud and piercing and unlovely that often those hearing it shuddered. And yet, she might have had a pleasing voice had she cared to try and soften it and make it sweet.

Imagine having your friends recognize your voice by its loud, harsh, unmusical quality. Does not the thought determine you to cultivate the art of speaking softly and sweetly?

HARDSHIPS IN THE ANTARCTICS

The attempt of Sir Ernest Shackleton to traverse the South Polar Continent from Weddel Sea to Ross Sea, according to advices received in London recently, has been unsuccessful in its main feature, although no endeavor of this sort can fail to produce scientific and geographical information of great value. When heard from, two groups of Shackleton's command were camped, the one on Elephant Island and the other somewhere on the shores of Ross Sea. The first group was left in an ice cave after the chief ship of the expedition had foundered. The second and smaller group was marooned when a supply ship was torn away by the ice.

Both parties have suffered severely. Shackleton's ship, the Endurance, was caught in the ice pack and held for months, finally being lost. Supplies were landed, and most of the party "dug themselves in" at a point in the South Shetlands, where there was no likelihood that even stray whalers could find them. So the explorer and a few chosen men, launched a twenty-two foot boat and cruised 900 miles in the open to South Georgia, where communication with the outside world was had. This is regarded as a remarkable feat of navigation.

NEW DESIGNS FOR COINS

Dimes, quarters, and half-dollars of a new design are now being minted in some of the United States mints. For the first time since 1891 a change will be effected in these pieces. It has been discovered that the fifty-cent piece is falling into disuse, and the new design for this coin was selected with the hope of restoring it to more general circulation.

The face of the new half-dollar bears a full-length figure of "Liberty," with a background of the American flag flying in the breeze. The goddess carries laurel and oak branches, symbolic of civil and military glory. The reverse side shows an eagle with unfolded wings perched high on a mountain crag. Growing from a rift in the rock is a sapling of mountain pine.

The design of the twenty-five-cent piece is intended to typify patriotism. "Liberty," a full-length figure, is shown stepping toward the country's gateway, bearing upraised a shield from which the covering is being drawn; the right hand bears an olive branch of peace. Above the head is the word "Liberty," and below the feet "1916." The reverse bears a figure of an eagle in full flight, wings extended, and the inscriptions "United States of America" and "E. Pluribus Unum." Both the half-dollar and the quarter bear the phrase, "In God We Trust." The design of the dime is simple. "Liberty" with a winged cap on, is shown on one side and on the reverse is a design of a bundle of reeds, and a battle ax, symbolic of unity and national strength.

A WEED EXTERMINATOR

Several of the western railways in the United States have entered upon a concerted campaign to exterminate weeds along the right of way, since weeds have been the source of the spread of fire in former years, entailing heavy losses. In this campaign a new process for treating the right of way, so as to kill the weeds, has been adopted.

The chemical solution used is a preservative for the entire track structure, while the permanent eradication of vegetable growth insures clean ballast. The apparatus consists of one or more tank cars fitted with sprayers, for sprinkling the chemical. Usually enough of the liquid is carried to spray from eight to twenty miles, at a speed of from eighteen to twenty miles an hour.

The sprinkler arm of the device may be raised quickly, in order to pass obstructions, by means of a chain attached to a rod along the body of the tank.

"It is only a poor sort of happiness that could ever come by caring very much about our own pleasures. We can only have the highest happiness, such as goes along with being a great man, by having wide thoughts and much feeling for the rest of the world as well as ourselves."

"Self-reverence, self-knowledge, self-control. These three alone lead life to sovereign power."

PUBLICITY FUND

Every organization should have set aside a publicity fund from which may be drawn for the payment of advertising and printing. Well planned publicity is necessary for the promotion of every cause, and that publicity has an actual cash value.

Members of various organizations in many instances do not seem to understand that publicity has an actual value in the commercial world. An aid society will plan for a food sale. The members of the society very willingly pay for the flour, the butter, the milk and other ingredients necessary for the preparation of the food which is to be put on sale. The gas used to generate heat for the cooking of the food is paid for without a murmur. But when it comes to the newspaper publicity that is to inform the public as to the place and date of the sale the average aid worker thinks she is being held up if charged for the advertising space.

Dear workers for all these noble and grand causes should bear in mind that newspaper composition and space costs the publisher the cold cash just the same as does the flour, butter, milk and gasoline cost the dealer the cold cash.

It becomes necessary for newspaper publishers to do a little missionary work along these lines and preach the gospel of the value of advertising space in dollars and cents.

Several months ago a young lady phoned a food sale notice to the Evening News' office, and upon being informed that the five line notice would cost the society 25 cents, she reported the matter to her father, who threatened to cancel his newspaper subscription unless the notice referred to could be published without charge. Imagine the daughter had called a grocery store asking for an order of flour to be used in preparing the food for the sale in question, and the groceryman would state a price, whereupon the father would say that for the past year he had been buying groceries from him and that unless he furnished the flour needed in this instance free he would cease to patronize him.

The instances referred to above are similar when considered from a business standpoint. However, the public is being rapidly educated up to the fact that judicious publicity is necessary and is worth the money paid for it.

LEARNING TO SAY "NO"

In learning a lesson, of course one must begin at the beginning. In learning to say "No," learn first of all to say it to yourself. To say "No" to one's self is very hard. Self-will cries out, "I will have it," and Laziness, Pleasure and Desire each have much to say on the subject, so that one needs to be very resolute to resist all these voices and say a good, stout "No" at the right time and place.

But this is a splendid beginning in one of the great lessons of life. To say "No" to one's self, when the temptation to yield is very strong, and no one is near to say anything at all, takes strength and courage and perseverance that can come only from above. When one has begun by this brave "No" to himself, it is much easier to say it to temptations that come to others, and easier to say the word to others. Indeed this denial must come first to himself before a person can keep on saying "No" to any one else.

Make a trial of this brave beginning and keep on.

WAIT FOR THE MUD TO DRY

Father Graham was an old-fashioned gentleman, beloved by every one, and his influence in the little town was great, so good and active was he.

A young man of the village had been badly insulted, and came to Father Graham full of angry indignation, declaring that he was going at once to demand an apology.

"My dear boy," Father Graham said, "take a word of advice from an old man who loves peace. An insult is like mud, it will brush off much better when it is dry. Wait a little, till he and you are both cool and the thing is easily mended. If you go now it will only be to quarrel."

It is pleasant to be able to add that the young man took his advice, and before the next day was done, the offending person came to beg forgiveness.

FLOWERS FOR A HIGHWAY

A blaze of yellow, from Mackinac to Tampa, Florida, along the Dixie Highway, will become a certainty in due time, provided the flower seeds hold out. Sunflowers, golden glows, and hollyhocks will be the flowers used in Indiana, while other States will plant the yellow flowers best adapted to their soils. This will be the work of "The Auxiliary to the Dixie Highway Association," branches of which are being established in towns along the Highway.

Patriotic and enterprising women in the various States will be invited to take charge of the work. In the southern States women have already volunteered to take entire charge of the beautifying.

LOOK UP!

Look up! in the early morning
To the mountains far away;
They are tinted with golden sunshine,

While the valley is chill and gray.
Look up! for the day is coming,
And gather help for the fray;
We battle with doubts and temptations,

No strength of our own can stay.

Look up! when the welcome noon-time

Glides into the day of care,
When peace flows into our waiting hearts

As answer to our prayer.

When we feel our Father's teachings

Drop into our lives with love,
We look again for promised help
That comes only from above.

Look up! while sunset glories

Are lingering in the west,
While clouds of amethyst and gold

Hang over the mountain's crest.
Look up! while evening shadows

Are gathering silently,
And thank our Father for the grace and help

He gives us day by day.

"JUST LOVED ME"

Two little four-year-olds were at play on the lawn when the tiny girl slipped and fell. In a moment her small companion had helped her to her feet again and stood with an arm around her until her sobs ceased.

"What did little cousin do for you when you were hurt?" asked the mother a few minutes later.

"Nuffin; he just 'loved me,'" answered baby, the tears still standing in her blue eyes, but the comfort of the tenderness she had received shining through them. "He just loved me over it."

There are so many falls and hurts where older people feel called upon to bring reproof, advice, warning, wise-sounding platitudes instead of the blessed love that would heal and strengthen. Many a weakness, many a slip, many a wound grows into a permanent scar and deformity for lack of the balm of sympathy and tenderness. Many a warped life and embittered heart might be saved if only there was some one to "love it over" the hour of hurt and danger and temptation. —Northwestern Christian Advocate.

HYMN TO THE CITY

Not in the solitude

Alone man can commune with Heaven, or see

Only in savage wood

And sunny vale, the present Deity;

Or only hear His voice

Where the winds whisper and the waves rejoice.

Even here do I behold

Thy steps, Almighty!—here, amidst the crowd,

Through the great city rolled,
With everlasting murmur deep and loud—

Choking the ways that wind

'Mongst the proud piles, the work of human kind.

Thy Spirit is around,

Quickening the restless mass that sweeps along;

And this eternal sound—

Voices and footfalls of the numberless throng—

Like the resounding sea,

Or like the rainy tempest, speaks of Thee.

And when the hours of rest

Come, like a calm upon the mid-sea brine,

Hushing its billowy breast—

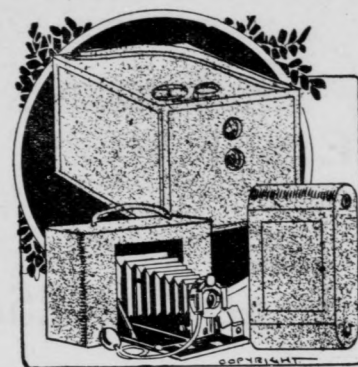

The quiet of that moment, too, is Thine;

It breaths of Him who keeps

The vast and helpless city while it sleeps.

A BIRD OF QUEER TRAITS

Of course everybody has heard of the cuckoo—the original of the little wooden bird which sticks its head out of the Swiss clocks and calls "Cuckoo! cuckoo!" as the hour comes round. Nearly everybody, too, has heard of its curious habit of laying its eggs in other birds' nests, where they are hatched out in due time and at once proceed to shove their foster-brothers and sisters out of the nest, and then grow fat on the provender gathered for the entire nestful.

In this country, however, no one has ever seen this done, for the simple reason that the American cuckoo has not learned this splendid scheme of making other people discharge his family duties for him, that practice being an exclusive privilege of his European brother. The nest, containing one cuckoo and three sparrow eggs, was brought all the way from England to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

While the American cuckoos do not confide the care of their offspring entirely to strangers, they do (as a good many humans do) make the eldest of their flock play nurse to the younger ones. The hen cuckoo lays her eggs a week or more apart; as soon as the first is hatched, the parent birds begin to feed it most assiduously. Before the second egg is hatched, as it is a week later, the first birdling is almost large enough to cover the remaining eggs and aid in keeping them warm and hatching them. Each youngster is expected to help to mother the next-comer until the nest is full. Then the eldest is coolly shoved out by the parents and told to fend for himself. Thus, instead of spending hours upon the nest, Mrs. Cuckoo is able to be off with her friends.

The whole cuckoo tribe seem to possess queer traits. In South America there is another species which differs both from the European and the North American in everything except its desire to shirk as much of its duties as may be possible. This species manages this by adopting a community plan of raising its offspring. Instead of each pair building a nest, one is built by three or four pairs working together. Nests have been found with as many as twenty eggs in them, on which no less than five hen-birds took turns in sitting.

No nation has ever been strong enough to thrive when it despised labor. The downfall of many a great empire can be traced to scorn for the worker. If America ceases to honor the man in his shirt sleeves, if the pick and shovel become symbols of contempt, the day of reckoning will be at hand.

Optimism is largely a habit, and even those of the most gloomy disposition, if they make a valiant effort to put away their besetting sin, can in time learn to see only life's brightness and none of its gloom.
